1. ★ KIEPATSKIY, Nikolay Stepanovich: Nationality Belorussian, born in Minsk 1931.
Is a teacher of English in Minsk State Pedagogical Inst. of Foreign Languages. Married.
5'8", 150 lbs. black hair, trimly built. Has sharp facial features with a long nose.
Subject is quite pleasant, likes to talk but avoids political discussion. When on the subject of politics, sticks to official party line.
2. Went to meet Belorussians in New York, and see if they have any organizations, or youth movements. In Washington did not meet any Belorussians, wonders if they were as strong as Ukrainians. In the whole subject prided life in the USSR are wast by the official party line, saying that Ukraine and Belorussia are free nations. Subject was satisfied with his stay in Georgetown University, was treated very well by the officials he had met, and made a lot of friends among students. Subject was hesitant to meet source, and after argument source had with MELNIKY where subject was present, tried to avoid meeting source. At first meeting joked around with source, about the fact that they could understand each other better since he is Belorussian. This stopped later when subject took a cold attitude towards source. There was no significant political conversation.
